Real scientific knowledge is what makes possi-

SAYS FOCH PLANNED GREAT BLOW NOV. 11

Lieut. Vincent de Wierzbicki of the French High Commission in the United States spoke to the students and faculty of Simmons College Thursday afternoon, under auspices of the Civic League. Miss Gertrude Barish, '19 of Cambridge introduced the speaker.

"We must not be too lenient with Germany," he said, "until her people are worthy to be called 'brothers.' She does not feel crushed. She is clever and strong. We must make her feel not only regretful but remorseful."

"But O, the beating we might have given her! She could not have been crushed had it not been for the subtlety of Foch. Of the Allies it is the Italian and English who are harsh and the Americans and French who are softer hearted. Foch had it in his power to strike the most crushing blow ever struck in the world's history—in fact, the great blow was to have been launched on Nov. 11 the very day of the armistice."

"Forty-five mighty divisions of the very latest veterans—Metz was the first objective, and then the Rhine. And our air fleets—why could they not have had a chance?"

"We were ready on the 11th, and could have wiped Berlin off the globe. It would have taken but four days to complete the smashing defeat, so that Germany could never have raised her head again."

"Many a General would have taken this opportunity, but not Foch. He is a Frenchman, and he could not bear to sacrifice one more human life, ally or enemy, than was absolutely necessary. So he made the greatest of sacrifices by letting the Germans out of the crushing defeat due them."

"I just want you to realize that France thanks America. She loves her so that she sacrificed her victory for her, for it was America that would have suffered for the victory."

BAR HAZING AT STATE COLLEGE

Durham, Jan. 4.—At a meeting of the men students here Friday afternoon, President R. D. Hetzel announced that hereafter hazing would not be tolerated at New Hampshire college.

The ordinary "stunts" of the annual college minstrel show are not interdicted, but even these were made perfectly harmless at that event Thursday night. In previous years, the victims after singing songs and dancing, were bathed with cold water, and then, in view of the groups appearing the student welfare committee says the freshmen from this humiliation.

The college classes began Friday with approximately 460 students enrolled. This is nearly two-thirds as large an enrollment as under the S. A. T. C., and men are enrolling constantly as they reach Durham from the various camps.

Saturday night all new students will be formally welcomed at a gathering under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. at the college gymnasium where the freshmen will hear an address by the president and by the student leaders of the many undergraduate activities.

AMERICAN FLEET CLEANEST IN SHIPS

British Greatly Impressed with Efficiency of the U. S. Navy

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Jan. 3.—Rear Admiral Rodman said today that it was freely expressed by the British naval officers that the American fleet was the cleanest and most efficient of the grand fleet and so great were they impressed that a commission of naval officers were appointed to study the American methods and they found that the cleanliness and efficiency was due to American machinery and American sailor ingenuity.

PLANS TO IMPROVE N. H. SCHOOLS

For the purpose of suggesting a method for equalizing educational opportunity in New Hampshire, a committee appointed last November by then Governor-elect Barrett to assist him in matters pertaining to education has submitted a report which reviews the system, or lack of system, of public education in New Hampshire and embodies a series of recommendations calculated to effect far-reaching, state wide reforms.

The report contains a complete plan for educational reorganization from the ground up, which will be embodied in a bill and submitted to the legislature in the present session. At the foundation as suggested by the committee, there would be a board of education, the members of which would serve without pay, and which would have power to establish educational policy for all the public schools in the state and such general powers over the administration of the public schools as the directors of the ordinary business corporation have over its corporate affairs.

This board, getting through a commissioner of education, would especially assume the responsibilities evolving upon the superintendent of public instruction, the trustees of the normal schools, and the state board of vocational instruction, and, in addition, would prescribe the duties and qualifications of all teachers employed in the public schools, prescribe the minimum curriculum for use in the schools, make rules for the conduct of its officers and the efficient management of the public schools.

The report contemplates the granting of authority to the board to divide the entire state into supervisory districts, and to establish state-wide, standardized supervision, and also standard medical inspection.

The expense of the undertaking is taken fully into the account as is the inability of some towns to bear it, and several definite recommendations are made, at the bottom of all of which lies the general principle that "if taxation is to be equal as well as educational opportunity, the state as a whole must bear a part, at least, of the expense of supervision in all parts of the state."

The plan calls for standard schools in charge of approved teachers for at least 36 weeks in each year and the compulsory maintenance of evening schools in every district in which reside five or more persons less than 21 years of age who cannot write and speak English understandingly, the length of the evening school term being determined by the board of education.

In the unorganized parts of the state, the board would provide standard schools, or place the children of school age in suitable schools in neighboring towns, and provide board for them at the expense of the state.

These are the principal recommendations of the committee, and they will be recognized at once as revolutionary in their bearing on a huge part of the state. The committee, however, apparently proceeded upon the assumption that its suggestions required the backing of convincing fact, and its recommendations are prefaced with a series of facts which are summarized as follows, in the words of the report:

"No other state in New England is so lax in enforcing recognition of school responsibilities."

"There is no power lodged in any official or officials sufficient to insure proper administration of schools, or to establish and maintain proper educational standards."

"Supervision of schools and teachers is optional, and lacking where most needed."

"No authority exists either to guarantee conditions necessary to the health of pupils or secure attention to easily remedied physical defects."

"Educational opportunity is neither equal nor universal."

"There is no standard school year nor annual minimum of work required of pupils in the state."

"There are no provisions for schools in the unorganized parts of the state."

"There are no compulsory evening schools, though, according to the census of 1910, 20788 of the population of the state cannot use the English language to say nothing of our native-born illiterates."

"This is the barest summary of a comprehensive review of conditions found in weeks of painstaking study of edu-national opportunities in various parts of the state, pupils' environment, the character of teachers and their qualifications, requirements, length of school terms and, in sum, all the many aspects of the educational problem."

The committee, however, while criticizing severely the short-comings of the state in respect to equal educational opportunity not only abstains from criticism of the state department of public instruction, but commends it rather, for its achievements in the face of obstacles. For example, the report says:

"As at other points where strong commendation can be given the conditions in regard to mental attainments of teachers in the elementary and secondary system are as good as they are because of the increasing and intelligent exertion of moral influence on the part of the superintendent of public instruction and his aids, rather than because of any inevitable result of the working of a thoughtfully conceived and properly organized system in which the state assumed large responsibility and to which it delegated due authority."

And it is at this point that the committee lays bare the conditions under which the school authorities of the state work, as follows:

"There are few states which do not require teachers to prove qualifications for their work before they are allowed to accept employment, but New Hampshire does not. This state is peculiar in regard to the qualifications, or care for our physical condition, but it has no required qualification for those who care for the mental and moral development of our youth. Neither certification nor examination is required, and, at will, school boards may employ ignorant, diseased or immoral persons as teachers and some do. The fact that the great majority of the children of the state are not subjected to the dangers of such conditions, in no way precludes their being harmed eventually by the fact that other children of the state are likely at any time to be exposed to influences of those thus incompetent or worse. Fulfillment of the state's responsibility for such conditions is not accomplished by a condition in which a majority or even a large proportion of the children of the state are adequately cared for. The standard of the state should be established, and any child within the state, whether residing in one of its municipalities, its farming towns, its lumbering sections or its industrial villages should be assured by the state of an education of like quality with that afforded any other child of the state, in so far as this is humanly possible."

This report, which is in two parts, one relating to the theory of state responsibility in respect of education and the actual conditions in New Hampshire, and the other containing the committee's recommendations, was made by General Frank S. Street, Concord, N. H., President, Ernest M. Hopkins of Dartmouth College, Judge John E. Young, Exeter, Rev. Dr. Patrick J. Scott, diocesan superintendent of schools, Manchester, Herbert P. Taylor, superintendent of schools at Manchester, Wilfrid J. Leonard, Manchester, and Dr. Alpha H. Harrison, Laconia.

A Year of Readjustment.

The New Year's message of Governor McCall of Massachusetts to the people of that state was sound and to the point, and will apply equally well to all the people of the country.

Governor McCall began by saying that "the year 1919 will be a year of readjustment, in the first place, readjustment in our methods of thought." The intense patriotism of the war, the Liberty loans, Red Cross and other drives have developed an exalted method of expression which, however useful it may have been for the purpose, caused our minds to work upon an abnormal plane. We must get down again to the steady, cool and rational method of thinking suitable for everyday life."

Mr. McCall went on to say that this will be a year of readjustment in business. The action of the government in accordance with the necessities of war largely set aside for the time being the law of supply and demand. The government took possession of many of the sources of production, but will now become a patron of industry, "and our business will need to be conducted according to the natural laws that have sway in time of peace." There must also, Mr. McCall pointed out, be readjustment in methods of government. "The necessity of doing things quickly has been paramount to doing them economically. We must return to the old paths of economical government. In a word, we must teach our feet to tread again the solid earth."

These words are all true and the sooner their truth is recognized and made the guiding force of action the better will it be for the country. It is true, as Mr. McCall says, that the people have for some time been "in the air," and that it is necessary to get down to earth again.

The readjustment that is necessary and inevitable will not be agreeable to those who have been profiting from the abnormal conditions that have prevailed since the beginning of the war, and more particularly from the time this country entered the conflict. But if the patriotism that has been professed is genuine all will bow gracefully to the changes that must come. It is unreasonable to expect that present wages and prices can long continue. Both are abnormal, and in time of peace conditions must be normal.

If the people will face the facts and meet changing conditions in the proper spirit there will be no trouble and no hardship. The work of restoring that which has been destroyed by war should make business good for a long time to come, but it will be impossible to keep it on a war basis. There must be readjustment all along the line. To assist therein is the duty of every patriot. To oppose it will be tantamount to proclaiming one's self an enemy to his country.

It is no small distinction to have served in the fire department of this city for half a century, as George N. Jones has done. His review of fire department matters for that lengthy period, which appeared in the columns of this paper a few days ago, was read with interest by the people of Portsmouth, who appreciate the services of this hale old veteran at their full worth.

The Suffragists are getting ready for a vigorous campaign at Concord in behalf of the cause so dear to their hearts. It is to be hoped and believed that they will avoid such folly as is being displayed in Washington, where some of their fellow workers are feeding beacon fires with the speeches of President Wilson.

A number of war officials and boards went out of action automatically with the coming of the New Year, among them being the War Industries Board and the Treasury Capital Issues Committee. And there must be further returns to private life in the near future.

The New Year's holiday found New York crowded with out-of-town people, and practiced observers noticed that large numbers of the visitors were from "dry" states. And without doubt many of these are in the habit of praying, "Lead us not into temptation."

While the guns, airplanes, and U-boat chasers were doing their stern duty last year automobiles managed to "lay out" 1,918 persons in New York alone. This everyday utility is one that can not be ignored when mortality statistics are being compiled.

The farmers will make more on wheat this year than the government will. The latter is under obligation to take the crop at a high fixed price and sell it for what it will bring, which will probably be nowhere near the cost.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg is reported to be ready to support British occupation of Berlin. To paraphrase a line of an old song, "It's funny what a difference just a few months make."

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, accompanied by the King and Queen drove to the Capitol.

NAVY YARD NOTES

Away For Week End.

Lieut. MacComick, executive officer of the naval prison, is passing the week end in Boston and Framingham.

Will Take 130 Working Days.

The addition to the yard machine shop, for which the contract has been awarded, is expected to be completed in about 130 days. It will be constructed on the north side of the present structure.

Foundry Improvements.

Officials of the local yard are interested themselves in the matter of the foundry extension to the extent of having the construction of the same done by yard workmen if possible. For this work $125,000 has been appropriated. With the additional space the foundry, according to present plans, will occupy all space in building No. 15. No improvement is more needed at the yard.

Will Give Up Parkfield.

At the present time it looks as if the Hotel Parkfield at Kittery Point, taken over some months ago for housing yard workmen, will shortly be given up by the government.

Means Much to the Yard.

With the coming machine shop improvements at the local yard, the Industrial Department will likely launch into the building of all machinery necessary for submarines. This will mean much more work for the yard and bring together a large number of expert mechanics.

Final Figures $935.35.

The management of the recent naval theatricals given by yard employees has turned over a check for $935.35 to the Industrial Manager Adams for the Red Cross. The total receipts of the show were $1,158, and the expenditures $222.65.

Few Vacant Rooms.

A few comfortable rooms for yard employees can be obtained at the Hotel Champernowne, and Peppers at Kittery Point.

At present these hotels are catering for all the yard employees putting up at the Point. The Parkfield is nearly ready to close its doors.

Navy Men There.

Several of the officials of the Industrial Department attended the launching of the ship "City of Newton" at the L. H. Shattuck yard this afternoon. They also attended the luncheon which followed.

SHATTUCK SHIP YARD NOTES

Tuesday noon the men in the Piping Department hung around and gave the impression to their foreman Joseph Pickard that they were more or less dissatisfied with things in general and Joe's dander was up when the five minutes warning whistle blew and no one made a move to get out on the job.

The foreman was in the middle of a fiery harangue when the Master Mechanic, Mr. McCauley dropped in and cast a disapproving eye around the shop. Mr. McCauley then turned to the boss and without more ado told him that when a foreman lost control of his men the only thing to do was to give him a one-way ticket to the pay office. Then before Joe had a chance to blow up Mr. McCauley handed him a little box containing a dandy gold ring with a ruby setting.

The last call of the whistle prevented an extended speech by Foreman Pickard but he had time to let the boys know that he was appreciative and everybody went to work happy and contented.

Mr. M. L. Hullard was due for a present sooner or later—and it came sooner. Tuesday afternoon, New Year's Eve, Mr. Hullard started out on a wild goose chase, investigating some trouble or another. On his return he found his office mobbed with office employees. He was dragged before the tribunal and presented with a handsome solid leather traveling bag, and

TRUNK FULL OF LIQUOR, AND OWNER ARRESTED.

Brunswick, Me., Jan. 4.—Liquor trickling from the corner of a new trunk attracted the attention of Deputy Sheriff William H. Edwards at the Maine Central Station Friday afternoon. While the officer was examining the prize, Edmund A. Leblond of Lewiston came up and claimed the trunk.

Deputy Edwards tried to arrest Leblond, who broke away. He was overtaken after a short sprint and a five-minute fight followed. Leblond was finally overpowered and locked up.

In the trunk were 12 quarts of alcohol, while a grip in Leblond's possession contained a quantity of rum, wine and whiskey. The liquor had been shipped from Lawrence, Mass., to Lewiston.

HOOVER IS APPOINTED DIRECTOR

(By Associated Press)

Paris, Jan. 4.—Herbert C. Hoover, who has been appointed Director of allied food relief in newly liberated neutral and enemy territory in Europe, sold yesterday that German ships totaling nearly 3,000,000 tons would be used to carry food to Europe and that German passenger boats would be utilized to send American soldiers home. "Food, worth $1,500,000,000 must be imported into Europe to provide against actual need between now and July 1st and the financing of the project is a stupendous task," he said. "The liberated territory will be fed first but much of this territory has no other government than that of scattered municipalities. It has no credit and is unable to pay for food. Poland, Armenia, the Czechoslovak and Jugoslav republics are in this condition as well as many other suffering sections. Most of the necessary food must come from the United States and representatives of that government are conferring with those of the allied powers as to the means for paying for this food."

HELD CENTENARY GROUP MEETING

The Centenary Sub-District Group meeting was held at the Methodist church Friday afternoon and evening. The stormy weather somewhat interfered with the attendance from the outlying towns but those present found the sessions interesting and helpful.

Rev. Roger Thompson, pastor of the Methodist church of Hampton, presided. The opening exercises in the afternoon consisted of the singing of hymns by the gathering, and a prayer by Rev. Mr. Stede of Greenland. Rev. Roger Thompson, who is pastor of the Methodist church at Amesbury, Mass., was the speaker of the afternoon, telling of the Centenary movement, especially in connection with the Sunday school. He has recently given up his duties at Amesbury to be in charge of Sunday School work of the Boston area in the Centenary movement.

At the adjournment of the meeting the time was passed in sociability and an inviting supper was served at six o'clock, the menu being salads, baked beans, brown bread, white bread, pickles, fancy pies and coffee. Mrs. Anna Parmenter was in general charge of the supper and Mrs. Mary Biddle of the serving.

The evening session opened at 7:30 o'clock. George Chaffee, chairman of the local Council of the Centenary sub-District Group, presiding. The session opened with hymn singing, scripture reading and prayer. Rev. C. M. Trelenis of Amesbury, Mass., was the first speaker, who spoke on the survey and Rev. H. W. Hook told of the spiritual side of the Centenary movement. After the first address Rev. Ross P. Hicks, district superintendent of the Methodist church, showed a series of stereopticon pictures on the ruins of France.

HEAVY SEA ADDS TO TASK OF RESCUERS

(By Associated Press)

Fire Island, N. Y., Jan. 1.—Removal of 200 wounded of the soldier passenger list aboard the stranded Northern Pacific was begun today under clearing skies and in an even sea. Submarine chasers and naval launches carried the men to the hospital ship Solace. Two powerful wrecking tugs made an effort at high tide to free the vessel. In rescuing the wounded naval launches drew alongside the ship which developed a heavier sea-ward list during the night and the Solace took a closer position. Inshore. Many of those remaining on board were iller cases thus adding to the difficulty of the rescue.

NAVY BOARD AND DANIELS DISAGREE

Washington, Jan. 3.—Secretary Daniels never permits the General Board to do anything nor does he always heed the advice of his bureau chiefs when he is contemplating changes in his naval policy, he stated Wednesday when he appeared again before the House Naval Committee to urge the creation of an American Navy second to none.

The function of the General Board he described as advisory in so far as he was concerned. He confessed that some of his plans for the future rebuilding of the navy had not met with the approval of his advisers. He admitted, however, that they had received the approval of President Wilson.

Those included:
Abolition of the seniority rule in the ranking of officers from one rank to another, promotions of officers to be determined strictly on merit by the votes of an election board of nine Admirals.

Restoration of the four years' course at Annapolis which the year suspended. Transfer from the temporary service to the permanent establishment of 1,000 reserves or temporary officers, who shall pass the necessary physical and mental tests.

Employment of enough men of the Naval Reserve to increase the personnel of the permanent establishment to 150,000, "which are deemed necessary," said Mr. Daniels not only to operate the ships of the navy but to provide men for the ships under the Shipping Board.

Continuation of the increased pay ranging from $5 to $15 a month for the personnel of the navy which Congress provided as a year measure May 22, 1915, as an inducement for skilled and educated men to join the navy.

One month's pay as a gratuity on discharge from service.

The Secretary took pains to explain that some of his advisory bureau chiefs did not agree with him that an increase of the navy's enlisted personnel to 200,000 would be sufficient. They thought the figure ought to be higher, he said, but then "there had always been a tendency on the part of the navy officers to regard having too many men as a better policy than having too few."

"I always weigh the opinions of those around me carefully and then form my own," the Secretary remarked.

Representative Britton (R-M) showed a disposition to disagree with the Secretary on the number of officers and men the navy would require. If the Secretary's three year building program were continued.

"We have not enough officers to man our ships now," Mr. Britton said. "The general board, the bureau of operations and the bureau of navigation have all estimated that the navy will need more officers and men than you have figured out."

Mr. Daniels explained that he had instructed his bureau chiefs with whom he "did not always agree" to present their estimates and opinions to the committee so its members could decide between those of his Admirals and chiefs and his own. It was for the committee to decide whether he was right or wrong, he added. He said the American ships had carried a larger personnel even during the war than the British. Even after the battle of Jutland, he said, British war craft carried a smaller complement than the American. He cited the British dreadnought Queen Elizabeth as an example, pointing out that she only carried 1,016 officers and men while the Arizona and the Pennsylvania had 1,510 and 1,416 respectively.

In urging legislation to sanction his plans the Secretary submitted the following memorandum:

"The permanent strength of the navy today is as follows:
Enlisted men ..... 131,185
Apprentice seamen ..... 4,000
Plying corps ..... 350
Hospital corps ..... 5,790

Total ..... 141,555
"The temporary strength of the navy today, which will be reduced to the above permanent strength six months after the signing of a treaty of peace, is as follows:

Apprentice seamen ..... 21,000

OBSEQUIES

Mabel A. Hersey.
The funeral of Mabel A. Hersey was held at 2:30 on Friday afternoon from her parents' home on Hanover street, Rev. L. H. Thayer, D. D., officiating. Interment was in Harmony Grove under the direction of J. Verne Wood.

Joseph B. Remick.
The funeral services of Joseph B. Remick were held from the home in Eliot Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Fred Norcross, a former pastor of the Methodist church in Eliot, and an intimate friend of the deceased, officiated. Mrs. May Whittier "Prising O' Paradise," "One Sweetly Sorrowful Thought," and "Lead Kindly Light." A delegation from Riverside, edge of Old Fellows was present and performed the rites of its order. The pall bearers were Messrs. Charles Sydney, Oscar and Ralph Remick, nephews of the deceased. Flowers in profusion were sent by sympathizing friends, and relatives. Interment was in Mt. Pleasant cemetery under direction of Albert Trachten.

THE HOME COMING.
It's home, home, home, a hundred thousand come!
The home, home, home, they left at a roll of drum!
As victors they've been greeted (The Germans they defeated)
And if we feel contented,
We're justified, "be gum!"

Let's join, all join, in cheering as they land!
Let each one take a hero by the hand!
They fought the beasts they pounded
A lesson that dumfounded
Our faith in them unbounded,
We think our heroes grand!

And some there are who wear an empty sleeve;
On crutches some, a slight that make one grieve!
And those things we have dreaded,
For War to Wee is wedded,
And but the empty-headed
Could otherwise conceive!

And as we watch the heroes hurry home,
We can not help but look across the foam,
Where in the trenches served
Our many lads lie buried,
For whom we might have queried
The Judgment Day has come!

It's home, home, home, the happy legions start;
To home, home, home, a million yet or more
Who helped the Allies beat them—
Oughted them and defeat them,
And then did kindly treat them,
When fighting was all over.

—J. E. MOORE.

JOBBER'S REGULATIONS ARE RE-SCINDED

Concord, Jan. 3.—Huntley N. Spaulding federal food administrator for New Hampshire, wishes to in this way officially notify all jobbers of food stuffs that the present regulations relative to margin of profit on wheat mill feeds are rescinded and that in the future it will be possible to averthe price of feeds purchased before and after Dec. 18. Feeds cannot be averaged on any wheat feeds except those already in the stock of the miller as of 1918.

In the future the food administration considers that in sales of wheat feed at wholesale the advance on any individual sale should not in any case exceed the purchase price delivered at the railroad station plus 15 per cent. The schedule of profit margins on wheat mill feeds for retailers has also been rescinded by the food administration and in the future the administration will expect only a reasonable war-time margin of profit.

PRISON FOR MOTHER AND DAUGHTER.

Burlington, Vt., Jan. 3.—Mrs. Nettie Hall and her daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Miller were today sentenced to state prison for perjury. By Judge Leighton P. Shack. They swore falsely in giving evidence in the case of the daughter who was endeavoring to establish a divorce. The mother will spend in jail not less than three nor more than five years and the daughter not less than one and one-half nor more than three.

The women testified that Miller divorced his wife when he married her and that neither she nor her mother knew of the wedding until the next day. Judge Shack ordered an investigation and later both admitted in court that the testimony was entirely a fabrication. They admitted that Miller lived with the girl for a year following the ceremony which occurred six years ago. She was then only 19 years old. Miller is now working in Rutland. He is nearly 39 years older than his wife and a hunchback.

P. A. C. CLOSE

CARNIVAL WITH BIG CROWD

The P. A. C. closed their three-night carnival at the Freeman's hall with the largest crowd of the entire show. All of the halls were well filled and the members were making things go with a snap. In the lower hall, in addition to the keen competition on the booths, there was a large crowd dancing for which Whitman's orchestra did fine work. Here also the final drawings were made which included a number of articles and the bonds and at the end a final auction of the goods left over that was lively.

KEPT THE POLICE HOPPING FOR HOP

Kittery Man Wants His Laundry and Issues a Trustee Writ.

Michael J. Conlon of Kittery, through Attorney Sleeper of that town, had a trustee writ made out against the proprietor of one of the local washing emporiums supposed to be Hop Long.

In the writ Conlon claims that he lost his "cheek" and that the Chinik refused to release shirts, collars, socks and other wearing apparel to the value of $25.

When the writ to bring the Chinikman was placed in the hands of the police the officers made the rounds of the several laundries, but "Hop Long" was not among the washing fraternities at any of the establishments and none of those therein knew "Hop." Hop may have hopped out or the Kittery man has his signals crossed. Anyhow the plaintiff will have to come over to Portsmouth and hop around with the police and identify Hop, the man named in the writ. After hopping around a part of the forenoon for Hop, the police hopped back to the station and gave up the hunt.

TWO GIRLS NEAR DEATH BY GAS

Found Unconscious From Escaping Furnace Gas.

Miss Marjorie Dockham and Miss Thelma Caswell, two well known young women, had a narrow escape from death on Thursday.

Miss Caswell went to the home of Miss Dockham to pass the night and both retired in the same room. The following morning the other inmates of the home failed to arouse them in their calling and finally went to the room to investigate. They found the door closed and a strong odor of coal gas. The windows of the room were also closed and both young women were unconscious.

Dr. E. B. Eastman, who resides nearby, was called and his aid was rendered none too soon. Miss Caswell appeared to be the more affected of the two and it was not until several hours later that she showed signs of reviving. It is understood that the escaping gas was caused from some defect in the furnace but all danger would have been avoided had the girls not overlooked the matter of opening the windows.

ANNUAL CHURCH MEETING

The annual meeting of the Middle Street Baptist church was held last evening in the chapel, when the reports were read of the various committees and organizations of the past year. The church has lost nine persons by death in the past year, one of whom made the supreme sacrifice for his country, this being Corporal Hugh Hill, an estimable local young man, a member of the National Army, who died in France.

The following was the election of officers and committees: Clerk Lewis E. Staples. Standing committee, Deacons Henry A. Yenton, Harry W. Wendell and Willie T. Lord; Mrs. Henry A. Yenton, Mrs. Charles A. Wendell, Mrs. William O. Sides, Miss Alice Chase, Mrs. Albert French, Miss Nellie Sides, Mrs. Albert G. Plummer, Mrs. William E. Shaw.

MUSICAL AT FORT CONSTITUTION

A musical was given last evening at the Y. M. C. A. hall at Fort Constitution, New Castle, by Mrs. Katherine Call Simonds of Franklin, and although it was pay day at the fort, the larger part of the men remained at the post to attend, showing the appreciation they had of the music.

Mrs. Simonds gave a group of songs having composed both the words and music herself. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Alda True, whose ability added much to the success of the musical and each selection was received with liberal applause.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CELEBRATION

The Salvation Army Sunday School and children of the worthy poor of the city were given a New Year's party last evening at the Army Hall on State street. The hall was filled, and the little folks were entertained with music and funny stereopticon pictures which kept them in a lively mood. Each child was presented with candy as the gathering broke up.

JERRY WATSON HERE GUEST OF EX-MAYOR

Has Few Things to Say on Boston Politics During His Stay.

Jerry Watson a member of the Boston City Council and one who knows the ins and outs of Boston politics, has been passing a few days in this city on business and incidentally the guest of former Mayor S. T. Ladd and Senator Oliver B. Marvin.

During his stay Jerry went over his many political battles in the Hub and naturally both the ex-mayor and the senator took a tip from the man who has won and lost many times in the Bay State political trenches.

Watson represents some Boston firm which handles street paving material and he knows the game of selling as well as he does politics. Of course our former chief executive of the city and the senator from the 24th district have long ago completed their course of political tuition and while they admit they are pretty well acquainted with the political game, they feel obliged to not their new fellows to Boston's Jerry when it comes to getting in on the ground floor of the political arena.
